America's Youth: AGs Looking Out for the Next Generation

September 4-6, 2024 | Portland, Oregon

10:30 am – 11:30 am Youth & Social Media: Evaluating Strengths; Understanding the Risks

Nines Ballroom

According to a 2023 Pew Research Center survey, 39% of teens say their social media experiences are better than their parents think, and 27% say their experiences are worse. 78% of parents with teens believe restrictions should be set on children's social media use, and 69% worry social media could be detrimental to their child's self-esteem. This panel will feature a discussion focused on youth social media experience and offer suggestions on how our young people can have a healthier, safer relationship with the technology that permeates their lives.

Friday, September 6, 2024

10:00 am – 10:15 am BREAK

10:15 am – 11:15 am Preventing Child Exploitation: All Hands on Deck! Nines Ballroom
Many Attorneys General offices engage in advocacy and protection of abused and neglected children. Most have ICAC (Internet Crimes against Children) units. Some have positions dedicated to identifying and eradicating child human trafficking, the average age for which is 12–15 years. Most states have mandatory child abuse reporting laws. With all this expertise and focus, we simply must address this travesty of child exploitation. This session will focus on the many ways youth are vulnerable to being trafficked (sex trafficking, forced labor, domestic servitude, debt bondage, forced marriage, and more), and the trauma experienced by these especially vulnerable youth.
